VOLUME 5 NUMBER 2

Museum To Open Soon

By Pearl Varner, President, Romulus Historical Society

Something great is about to happen in Romulus!

The date has been set for the Romulus Historical Museum's grand opening – Sunday, September 8. More information will be forthcoming as the date draws nearer.

In anticipation of the grand opening, many artifacts are being sought: Romulus political memorabilia, Romulus Feed Store burlap bags, photos of Civil War veterans in uniform, local Indian artifacts, World War Two bomber plant artifacts, "made in Romulus" items (nothing bigger than a breadbox), and photos of Romulus settlers, to name just a few.

The inside work is now nearly completed, including placement of eight permanent, wall-hung showcases depicting Romulus history dating back to the early Romulus settlers. The subfloor will be done soon, and carpeting has been ordered.

At this time, we would like to thank the Romulus Kiwanis for their recent donation of $500. Their continued support is greatly appreciated.

If you have items to donate, please call 697-9628 or 941-2678.

We look forward to seeing you on September 8. □

County Meets with City, Residents About Future Airport Land Acquisition Plans

By Evelyn Atkins

"This airport is going to strive to be a responsible neighbor, a good neighbor. That doesn't mean we're always going to be able to do the things that you want, but we're going to strive to do those kinds of things that help us to be a better neighbor – and, as your commissioner, I basically view it as my job to continually beat them over the head to do that for you."

So said Brian Amman, Commissioner of Wayne County's eleventh district, at a July 24 meeting at Romulus City Hall. The purpose of the meeting was to provide a positive and open forum for County and Metro Airport officials to describe the various components of the Airport's land acquisition program.

Also in attendance at the meeting were Bob Braun, Airport Director; Lester Robinson, Assistant Airport Director; Robert Murphy, attorney for the County; County Commissioner Jackie Currie, Chairperson of the Committee on Roads, Airports, and Public Services; Mayor of Romulus, Beverly McAnally; City Councilmen "Junior" Block, Russell Lambert, and Bill Wadsworth; Linda Choate, City Clerk; James Napiorkowski, City Treasurer; and a standing-room-only crowd of Romulus residents.

After a few opening remarks by Amman, Director Braun gave a slide presentation concerning various aspects of the Airport's plans.

One project he discussed was the construction of two new runways. The first, an east-west crosswind runway at the south end of the Airport, will require no new land acquisition. Construction is slated to begin later this year.

The second runway will be constructed west of, and parallel to, the three northeast-southwest runways already in existence. The new runway "... will require the acquisition of about 350 acres or so, in round numbers, of property along our western border," Braun said. "I believe that everybody that's involved in the acquisition program in that particular area has been contacted by now, and our real estate acquisition consultants and Mr. Murphy will probably have already started working with you on the acquisition."

Braun explained that the construction of this new runway would require the rerouting of a section of Wayne Road beginning at Grant and ending at Eureka, where it would then resume its original course. A short section of Goddard would also be relocated in order to swing around the property that will form the new western boundary of the Airport.

Braun also discussed the construction of two runway extensions. The first, a 1,500-foot extension of the westernmost parallel runway, has already been completed and is currently in use by Northwest Airlines.

The second, an extension on the south end of the center parallel runway, "... was proposed initially as part of our noise mitigation plan," said Braun. "The intention of that was that, with departures to the north, by giving them an extended, set-back departure point (the takeoff point), the aircraft would be higher in the air by the time they crossed some of the more densely populated areas north of the Airport than they would be without that extension. That runway extension is still under consideration, and is included in our Part 150 Noise Compatibility Plan."

Other plans discussed included three Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) projects. The first, a new I-94 interchange at Vining Road, has been proposed in order to support the development of the billion-dollar Metro World Centre private development project. A second project would involve the reconstruction/

This farm, located at the corner of Wayne and Eureka, was sold to the Airport for an alleged $1.2 million.

The Editor's Opinion

By Evelyn Atkins

Recently, I have been approached concerning the legal authority of the City's Department of Assessment to enter our homes to remeasure and reinspect for the purpose of property reassessment.

When this question was posed to Matthew Raftary, Director of the City of Romulus Department of Assessment, he sent a letter to The Romulus News and enclosed information to support his statements. The letter stated, in part:

"You have requested information regarding the authority of personnel of the Department of Assessment to enter upon private property for the purpose of measuring structures.

"We have enclosed a copy of an opinion of the Marquette County Prosecuting Attorney regarding just that question.

"It was opined by Mr. Walker that based on past case law, an Attorney General Opinion and Michigan Compiled Laws Annotated, that assessing personnel have lawful authority to enter upon private properties to fulfill their statutory obligations of assessing property values for the purpose of determining a fair property tax.

"We have received an opinion from our own legal counsel as to the relevancy of this opinion and also to ascertain whether any of the cited case law has been overturned since the writing of the opinion. In both instances, City of Romulus Legal Counsel has stated that the opinion and case law is still relevant to this immediate matter.

"The most compelling documentation is MCLA 211.10 (e) which is the statutory language adopting the State Tax Commission Manual and mandating that all Assessors must use that manual in the performance of their duties. Furthermore, this manual states that on site inspection and measurement is mandatory to fulfill the statutory obligations.

"Mr. Walker, in his opinion, also states that assessors have not violated criminal trespass laws because their presence upon private land is within lawful authority pursuant to the statutory requirements of the State Tax Commission and the state's legitimate exercise of its police powers in enforcing its property tax laws.

Sincerely,
Matthew Raftary, Director
Department of Assessment"

MCLA 211.10 (e), mentioned in the above letter, states:

"Sec. 10e. All assessing officials, whose duty it is to assess real or personal property on which real or personal property taxes are levied by any taxing unit of the state, shall use only the official assessor's manual or any manual approved by the state tax commission, consistent with the official assessor's manual, with their latest supplements, as prepared or approved by the state tax commission as a guide in preparing assessments. Beginning with the tax assessing year 1978, all assessing officials shall maintain records relevant to the assessments, including appraisal record cards, personal property records, historical assessment data, tax maps, and land value maps consistent with standards set forth in the assessor's manual published by the state tax commission."

According to Raftary, City inspectors are guided in their reassessments by specifically worded instructions mandated by the State. This language states, in part: "When you appraise a property using the Cost Approach to Value on site inspection is mandatory. . . . The appraiser should make a careful inspection of the interior finish and construction details and record these details in the appropriate place on the replacement cost record. All details which vary from the base for the construction class should be noted so that proper adjustments can be made."

All right, the law is the law, but is it morally right to have to let someone into your home (a very personal place) for the purpose of tax assessment? I don't think so! The card provided by the Assessment Department can be filled out just as easily by the homeowner as by the person doing the assessing. They can measure the outside of the structure, check its condition, take stock of the outbuildings, and measure the property with no squawks from me, but I do not want them inside my home. That is my place of refuge. They may not be breaking the criminal law of trespassing, but they are trespassing – trespassing on my privacy.

As far as I'm concerned, even filling out their card is an infringement on my prerogative, since several of the questions are not relevant to the Assessment Office's purpose (revaluation) and are, therefore, really none of their business. For instance, one section of the card is concerned with the amount of recreational and living space contained in the basement. When you sell your home, a finished

Romulus Profile: John Colina

By Tom Shamanski

"Alcohol abuse, especially when young people are involved, is a major social problem. I feel the most effective long-range solution is education, and this is where we're focusing our efforts."

Not to deny or diminish its importance, the above statement is typical of those we've heard concerning alcohol abuse during the past several years. However, what makes this particular statement unique is that it wasn't uttered by a social worker, psychologist, or the like. It comes from John Colina, 48, president of Central Distributors of Beer, a thriving business located in Romulus.

Sitting at a round wooden table a few feet away from Colina's matching wooden desk, we sipped some morning coffee as he continued. "Naturally, we're concerned about alcohol abuse in general, but for optimum educational effectiveness, we focus on students. One thing we repeatedly like about being in Romulus is that Mayor McAnally continuously strives to address the drug problem. We, along with other businesses, have frequently worked with the Mayor on this issue, especially as it relates to the young people of Romulus."

Colina then explained how alcohol can affect young people more profoundly than adults. Speaking in terms of regular drinking, youths from ages 12 to 16 face possible addiction after 16 to 18 months of drinking.

When queried about a beer distributor promoting alcohol abuse education, Colina replied, "Alcohol abuse programs endorsed by a beer distributor is as logical as a car manufacturer promoting the use of seat belts."

For the past 11 years, Colina's wife, Nancy, Special Projects Director for Central Distributors, has headed up the educational efforts of the Company. In order to be as knowledgeable as possible, Nancy attended a one-year training program at Maple Grove, the substance abuse division of Henry Ford Hospital.

Currently, she presents alcohol abuse programs to elementary, middle school, and high school students. Business and service organizations, as well as school groups, can obtain additional information by writing her at Central Distributors, 28100 Gorsuch, Romulus, MI 48174; or by calling 946-6200.

I asked Colina how he felt about Romulus being the base of his operation. "I feel we have an excellent rapport with the city," he answered. "Romulus is certainly very conscious of, and helpful toward, the business community in general. There is always a quick response to any problem, whether it's weeds needing to be cut, providing information, or a potential police problem. We're definitely very happy to be here."

As Colina recoffeeed our mugs, I commented on the attractiveness of his office. It's a large, airy room with light-brown walls and dark-brown carpeting. Behind the desk and a high-backed leather chair is a picture window, flanked by two large paintings. The remaining walls are covered with additional paintings, plaques, and several built-in bookcases.

Thanking me for my comment, Colina smiled. "Yes, in a way it's almost indicative of our progress since my grandfather, John Gorsuch, founded the business in 1933." Gorsuch began the distributorship with a single truck operating out of Detroit. He began by distributing Pfeiffer beer, which was at that time, Michigan's most popular beer. After 30 years in Detroit, the business has settled neatly in Romulus, with a large office complex and a 120,000-square-foot warehouse, and now distributes Anheuser-Busch beers.

Throughout these 58 years, the company has remained family-owned, with Colina assuming the presidency in 1978. Grandfather Gorsuch died in 1967 and, at that point, Colina joined with his mother and entered the business. His mother retired in 1988. Colina's sister, Karen Wilson, came on board in 1983, and now holds the position of Vice President.

Central Distributors now employs 130 people fulltime, and beefs up each summer with a number of seasonal workers. Colina tries to employ local students in these positions so that they may earn money for school.

When asked what has been the most significant nonsocial change he has observed through the years, Colina referred to the change from "throw-away" beer containers to deposit bottles and cans. He stated, "Although certainly good ecologically, the bottle bill has led to a doubling of our warehouse people. In fact, as each container must be handled individually, we now employ 14 people who exclusively handle empties."

As the morning progressed and we continued talking, it became apparent that John Colina, in both his professional and private life, is truly an extraordinary man. He has the ability to focus on areas in which he wishes to improve himself or his business, and to remain focused until his goal is achieved.

"Through the years," he recalled, "I've been kidded about my focusing. For instance, if I were reading or writing, it was as if I was in another world. To me, it didn't matter what else was happening . . . even a few feet away! I was totally focused and that was all I knew. My ability to focus is a God-given talent and has enhanced all areas of my life."

He regularly sets monthly, yearly, and five-year goals, and achieves such because, he says, of his focusing ability. He has written his own job description and focuses in on a yearly self-evaluation. A current goal is to become an even more organized person. Another is to revise his job description so he may spend less time at his desk and more time in community service.

Over the years, community service and charitable donations have become an important part of Colina's life. He donates both corporately and personally. On the corporate level, he tends to focus on educational organizations. His personal donations are usually church-related, although Alma College, from which both of Colina's daughters graduated, is also a favorite recipient.

When asked his philosophy regarding donations, Colina stated, "Corporately, I believe any business has social responsibilities in this area. Personally, I experience much satisfaction and, as a practicing Christian, I feel donating is not only morally correct, but absolutely necessary."

And what activities does Colina focus on for relaxation? "Playing golf and daily walking are two things I enjoy," he answered. "Also, I like going to hockey games, and Nancy and I enjoy season tickets at the Fisher Theater."

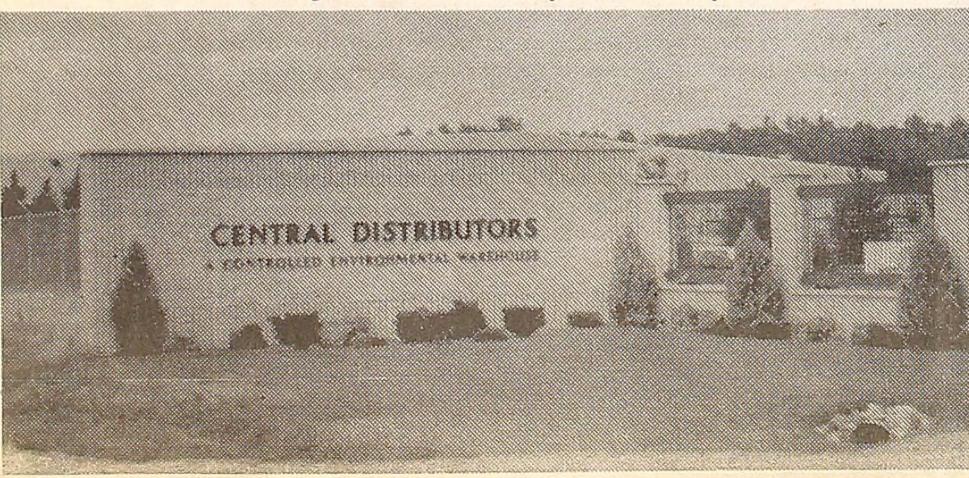

Colina's daughters are Jomie, 24, and Lori, 22. Jomie and husband Mike live in Kalamazoo, as she's working on her master's degree in occupational therapy. Lori is currently in Colorado and is, as her dad fondly characterizes her, "our citizen-of-the-world."

Finishing our coffees and our conversation, Colina walked me to the front entrance of the office complex. Smiling and shaking hands, I found myself thinking that I had just had the opportunity to interview a man with the capability to achieve any goal he may choose. The only remaining question is what that next goal might be. □

Volunteers Needed

Michigan Historical Sites Are Great Places for Family Trips

All information submitted by James A. Kosteva, State Representative for the 37th District

Summertime in Michigan usually means family vacations revolving around outdoor recreation, including boating, fishing, and swimming. Michigan is also blessed with fine historical museums, and a trip to any one of them can add to your family's vacation enjoyment and understanding of Michigan's history.

The State's main historical site, the Michigan Library and Historical Museum, is located near the State Capitol in downtown Lansing. Opened in 1989, the museum boasts a 50-foot-high live white pine in its atrium.

The museum houses an Upper Peninsula copper mine where you can hear a conversation between two miners. Also on display is the first territorial Capitol and artifacts from an opulent lumberbaron's house, circa the White Pine Era of the 1800s. Other highlights include a life-sized woodland diorama and a three-story topographical map of Michigan.

The museum is handicapped accessible and open to the public weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Saturdays 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and Sundays 1 to 5 p.m. Admission is free. For more information, call (517) 373-3559.

Michigan also has nine historical field sites, ranging from the Fort Wilkins Historic Complex at the tip of the Keweenaw Peninsula to the Walker Tavern Historic Complex in Lenawee County.

- Fort Wilkins Historic Complex in Copper Harbor offers visitors a look at life along the rugged shore of Lake Superior in 1844. The fort is a well-preserved example of a nineteenth-century military post. Museum hours are from 8 a.m. to dusk daily from mid-May to mid-October.

- Michigan Iron Industry Museum, eight miles west of Marquette, chronicles the story of the Michigan iron ore industry through hands-on exhibits, outdoor interpretive paths, and audio-visual programs. Museum hours are 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. daily, May through October.
- Fayette Historic Townsite on the Garden Peninsula in the Upper Peninsula offers tours and slide shows of the townsite, once a bustling industrial community that manufactured charcoal pig iron between 1867 and 1891. The site is open from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily from mid-May to mid-October.
- Father Jacques Marquette Museum, located in St. Ignace, offers artifacts from Father Marquette's journeys, as well as an impressive view of the Mackinac Bridge. Exhibits include an Indian longhouse diorama and displays interpreting early French and Indian contact. Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, June through Labor Day.
- Hartwick Pines Lumbering Museum in Grayling is surrounded by one of Michigan's largest remaining stands of virgin white pine. Exhibits interpret Michigan's lumbering history. Museum hours are 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. daily, June through Labor Day.

- The Civilian Conservation Corps Museum in Roscommon includes a replica of a CCC barracks, and houses exhibits recalling the days between 1933 and 1942 when more than 100,000 Michigan men served in the CCC.
- The Sanilac Petroglyphs along the north branch of the Cass River in Sanilac County are a series of figures carved into a sandstone outcrop. Archaeologists believe the petroglyphs were created between 300 and 1,000 years ago.
- The Mann House, located in Con-cordin Jackson County, offers visitors the chance to step back into the Victorian Age. Built in 1883-84, the three-story house is filled with Victorian artifacts.

- The Walker Tavern Historic Complex in Lenawee County is a restored tavern and barn which features period settings. Exhibits interpret life in antebellum Michigan. Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, June through Labor Day.

Information on hours, admission fees, and special programs at Michigan's historical museums can be obtained by calling (517) 373-3559. □

Romulus Big League: 1991 Champs Again

By Mark Harden and Brian Moore, Big League coaches

After not having a Big League in Romulus for several years, this year's team came back to win the District again this year. This season, we had one of the best defensive teams to come out of Romulus.

Helping out on defense were Rich Evans, Brian Ellison, Chad Filek, Mark Harden, Tim Dufore, Donald Zemke, Eric Ward, Charlie DuDonis, and Mike Grube.

Others who contributed to this year's win were Jeff O'Connor, Roy Sturdivant, Tim Howell, Joe Kusibab, Bob Bergeron, Mike Barkowski, Jeff Filek, and James Moore.

Our pitching was also outstanding with the help of Brian Ellison and Tim Dufore. Rich Evans, Jeff O'Connor, and Bob Bergeron came into relieve.

The season, which ended with a very impressive 15-1 won/lost record, was decided on our very last game.

Last weekend, some of this year's team travelled to Kalamazoo for the State tournament. □

Boone and Darr Finishes Fourth

Romulus and Belleville athletes led the way for the second consecutive year as the travel fast-pitch team from Ann Arbor finished fourth in the Great Lakes Regional in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, this past weekend.

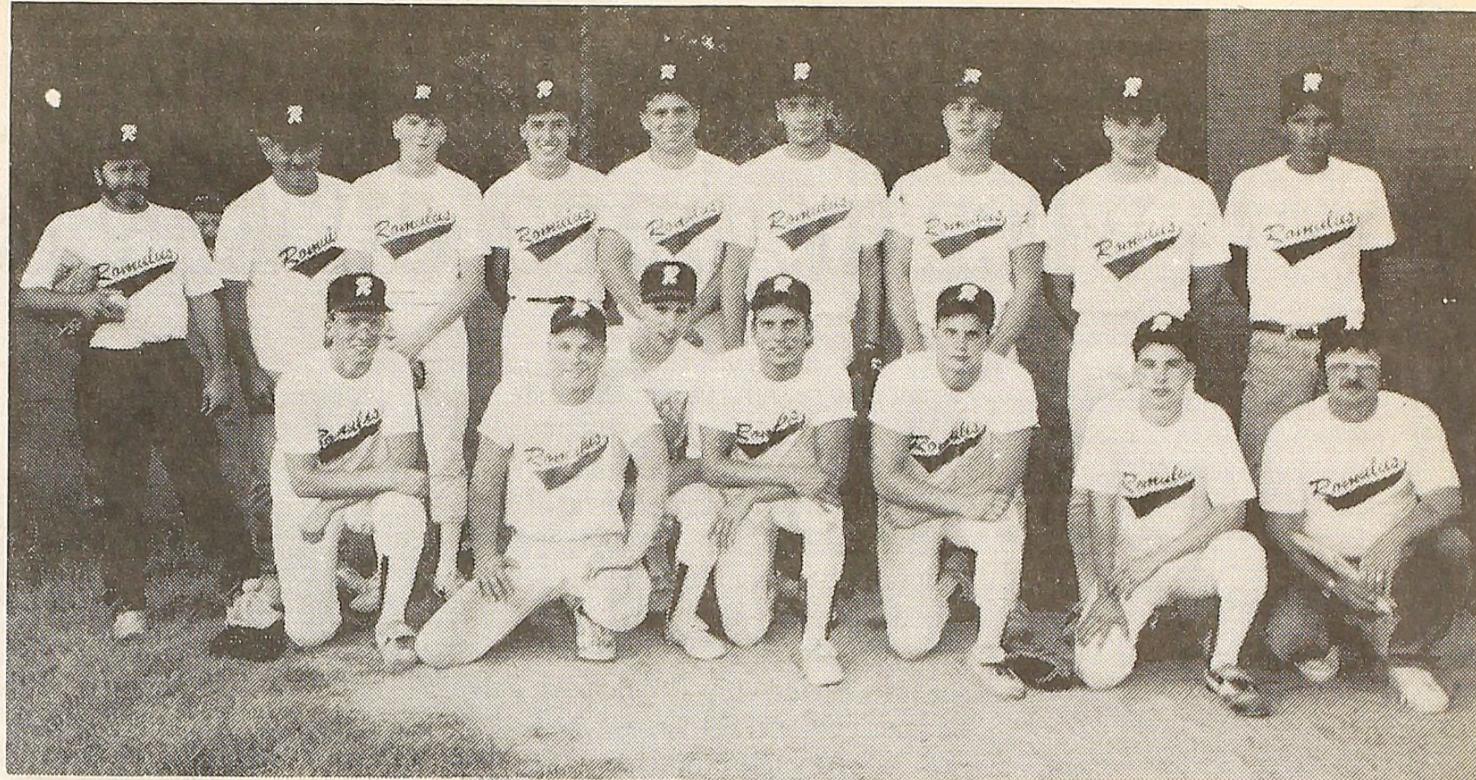

Keisha Wilson, Kelly Rochon, and Linda Pasek from Belleville's district championship team were key players in this summer's program, with Linda and Kelly solidifying the defense while Keisha led the team in almost every offensive statistic.

Keisha is headed for either Oakland Community College or Lake Michigan College to continue her play next fall, and both programs have to be excited about the prospects of having her in their lineup. Keisha batted .479 for the summer with 34 hits and 25 RBI. She led the team in doubles, triples, and homeruns, as well as runs scored, and some of her loooooong hits were talked about in every city she played in this summer.

The Romulus connection to the Boone and Darr program also played a big part in the success of the team this summer.

Woodhaven transplant from Romulus, Andrea Young, moved to shortstop from her high school catching position, and showed that what most coaches in this area think of her talents is true. Andrea's efforts at filling this key position solidified the infield defense and, more importantly, demonstrated her ability to play just about anywhere on the field.

Jennifer Daniel, Romulus's scholar-athlete, had probably her best summer ever as a travel player. Switching from infield to outfield created no problems for this multi-talented athlete, but the biggest surprise of the summer was Jennifer's ability to switch to the left side of the plate for hitting. Jennifer ended the season at .385 with 20 hits and 14 runs scored. She also led the team in sacrifices with 14 and became a key defensive player in the regionals when injuries depleted the infield. Jennifer was called on to replace both the second-base position and the shortstop position during the nine-game weekend, and proceeded to handle 23 attempts without any errors at those two positions. Jen moves on to Wayne State University in the fall, where she hopes to help the Tartars regain their national recognition as a Midwest softball power.

"We played very well this weekend, and it is a shame that only two teams could leave that regional," stated Boone and Darr coach Fred Coleman. "Four Michigan teams dominated play in Milwaukee, and then on Sunday it just came down to who had the hot bats and gloves. We hit the ball well enough to go to the Nationals, but we made a couple of errors that cost us in key situations, and you just cannot do that at this level. We have 11 of these girls returning to next summer's team, and this year's learning experience should help in next year's efforts toward the Nationals." □

Traffic Stop

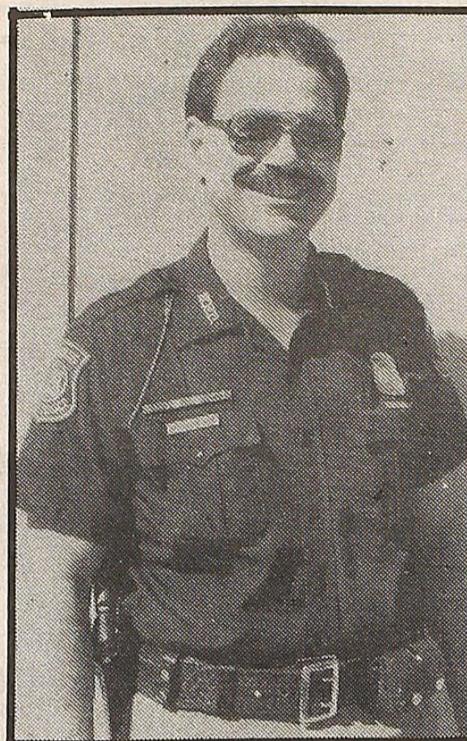

By Officer Rick Schwartz, Romulus Police Department

After I assumed the position of accident investigator for the Romulus Police Department, Romulus News Editor Dave Atkins called me weekly to inquire about the City's various traffic problems. If you read "the little paper" regularly, you know that he always did his best to keep you informed about such problems.

One day last August, during one of our phone conversations, he asked me if I would write a regular column for his readers. Dave believed that if just one person avoided an accident and escaped injury or death because of something that he/she had learned in one of these "Traffic Stop" articles, then his goal would be accomplished.

Dave had a great concern for you, his readers. We did not always agree about traffic enforcement and traffic laws, but, after asking me to write for his newspaper, he never dictated what I could or couldn't say. He wanted you to be informed about new laws and also be reminded about current laws, hazards, and trouble spots.

Romulus is unique: it's a rural community with two expressways, numerous railroad crossings, and a major airport. Many people don't want (or think there's much of a need for) traffic enforcement, but, because of our uniqueness, Dave was one of the people who supported traffic control in Romulus.

Whether you agreed with him or not, whether you liked him or not, that doesn't matter now. Dave Atkins wanted to be heard and leave his mark on the community he loved. That's exactly what he did, and that's quite an accomplishment.

We'll miss you, Dave. □

Tidbits

By Maria "Myra" Barrow

Construction work in progress on Interstate 94 is making it nearly impossible to get home on time these days.

Recently, on a day when the temperature was a scorching 94 degrees, I got stuck in traffic; dinner was going to be late. Don't worry, be happy, I thought to myself.

I decided that it would be the perfect day to stop at the Romulus IGA on Goddard. (The deli can be a real lifesaver on days when you're running a bit behind schedule.) Peeking through the glass at the deli counter, I found it difficult to choose: Wendy Kufel and the other ladies in the deli prepare everything so well, and their food always looks so appetizing.

Since it was so warm, I thought I would start off the meal with a fresh, seven-layer salad, and maybe include a pasta salad as well. I had Linda Stellwagon wrap up some of both. I also ordered a nice slice or two of the cheesecake for my family (none for me because I promised myself not to go too heavy on the sweets).

Well, I was finally in control again, so I rushed home and refreshed myself, jumping into my black and white, polka-dot pedal pushers like we used to wear in the '60s. A back-out halter top completed my hot-weather attire.

For the main entree, I decided on Veggie Pizza (recipe by Judy May of Battle Creek). I pulled out my 10"x14" cookie sheet and opened two packs of Pillsbury crescent rolls. I rolled the dough into the shape of a pizza crust, placed it on the cookie sheet, and baked according to the directions on the package.

Setting the crust aside, I began making the cheese layer, using two four-ounce packages of Philadelphia cream cheese, one cup of real mayonnaise, and one package of ranch dressing mix, and stirring them together until they had a frosting-like texture. Next, I put the cheese mixture into the refrigerator, chopped up some veggies (broccoli, cauliflower, and carrots) using a food processor, and separately chopped some onion into very fine pieces.

Finally, I spread my cheese mixture onto the crust, then topped it with the veggies, onions, and a sprinkling of cheddar cheese.

The final touch to my quick summer meal was the Rose/Lemon Beverage (recipe by Phylis Anderson). I followed the instructions on a can of concentrated lemonade, then added five drops of rose flavor. You can give your beverage a really exotic twist by adding black currant juice. (Rose flavor and black currant juice can be purchased at the India Pakistan market.) Lastly, I added a sprig of mint and a lemon slice to each chilled glass. □

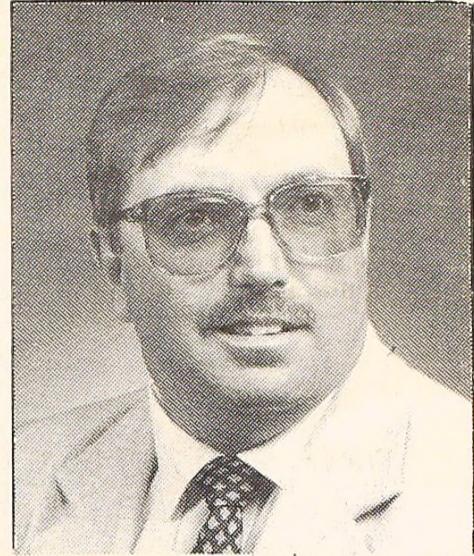

From the A.D.

By Fred Coleman, CAA, Athletic Director, Romulus Community Schools

I would just like to send a short note of thanks to the family of Romulus News Editor Dave Atkins from all of the athletes whose outstanding accomplishments may have gone unrecognized had it not been for Dave and "the little paper."

No doubt, I did not always agree with some of Dave's editorials, and I surely didn't agree with his stand on some of the local issues, either, but I definitely feel that what he was doing for the community as a whole, and for the athletic department specifically, was and always will be a needed part of Romulus.

I hope that all who have helped in keeping "the little paper" on the streets of Romulus will continue to do so, and, most importantly, I want the family of Dave Atkins to know that what they have done for the athletes and the Romulus athletic program over these past few years is tremendously appreciated by myself, the parents, and, most of all, by the student athletes of our city. □

Just a Reminder...

By Fred Coleman, CAA, Athletic Director, Romulus Community Schools

Fall sports begin August 12 at the High School. All athletes must have their physicals and insurance records on file with the Athletic Director before they will be allowed to practice.

Get your physicals now! Don't wait until the last minute, or you may find yourself sitting out what looks to be a very exciting fall at RHS.

Lambert's Dedication Was an Inspiration to All

On Saturday, June 29, 1991, the City of Romulus was saddened by the death of one of its most prominent citizens, Daniel Lambert.

Danny was born in Detroit, Michigan, on October 22, 1925. When he moved to Romulus in 1950, he adopted his new community wholeheartedly, and his commitment to its people and its improvement only grew stronger over the years.

Danny's service to the community took many forms. In 1955, he became an ordinance enforcement officer for Romulus Township, eventually rising to the rank of lieutenant during the course of his 10 years in that position. He also served, at various times, as chairman of the Police, Fire and Safety Committee, a member of the Romulus Building Authority, a member of the Airport Zoning Board of Appeals, and Director of the City's Department of Responsive Government. As a member of the Romulus Democratic Club (in which he held such posts as sergeant-at-arms and vice president), he was actively involved in politics, and he was the recipient of many citations and other expressions of appreciation from those he supported.

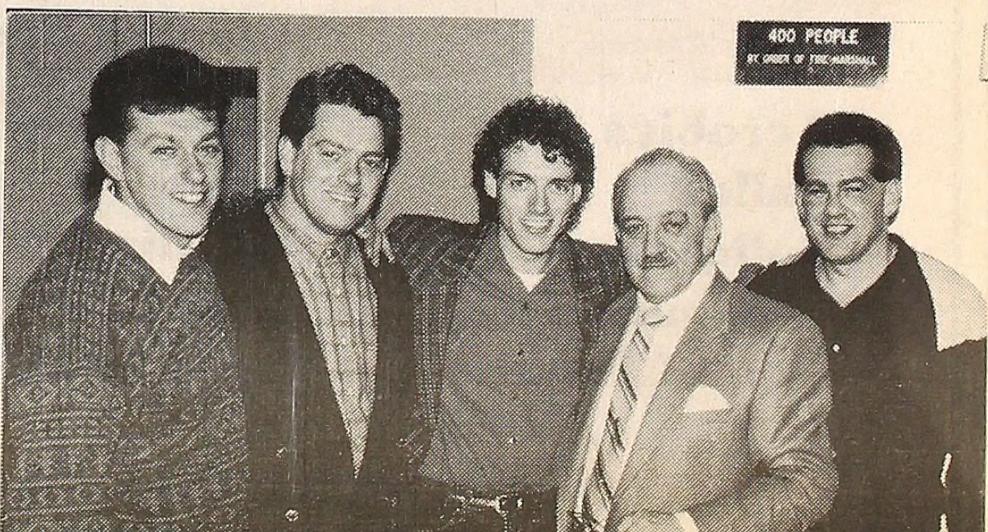

rewarded with hundreds of thank-you letters. "It makes you feel like a million dollars," was Danny's comment in a 1974 interview with Dale Gowing, staff reporter for The Romulus Roman. "I get a lot of satisfaction from helping someone, and I feel good when people call to say thanks." (The Romulus Roman, November 27, 1974)

Danny's values were a major part of his private life as well, and his unselfish commitment was an inspiration to Dorothy, his wife of 44 years, and his five children: Russell, Alan, Sandra, Rubin, and Robert. In fact, two of his sons – Russell and Alan – have followed in his footsteps politically (Russell is currently a member of the Romulus City Council, and Alan has also served on Council in the past), and Alan's current position on the Romulus police force reflects a dedication to law enforcement similar to his father's.

Besides his wife and children, Danny leaves behind two daughters-in-law, Maria and Victoria; one son-in-law, David Purcell; two sisters, Marsha Korn and Celia Fott; one brother, Joseph; two brothers-in-law, Harry Korn and Joseph Rott; one sister-in-law, Sylvia; and eight grandchildren, Cary, Eric, Sarah, Joseph, Jennifer, Kallena, Julian, and Justin. □

Danny managed to serve the community in many capacities, but perhaps the spirit of his ideals was best personified in his directorship of the Department of Responsive Government. During his two years in that office, he helped untold numbers of citizens with questions and problems, and his troubleshooting efforts were

Christmas in July

On Thursday, July 25, 1991, the Romulus Jaycees held a "Christmas in July" party at the Airport Radisson Hotel. (The room was donated by Pam McDonald, Sales Manager, Airport Radisson Hotel.) There were games, drawings, prizes (donated by local businesses), and more, as well as a visit from Santa Claus and Christmas Carol.

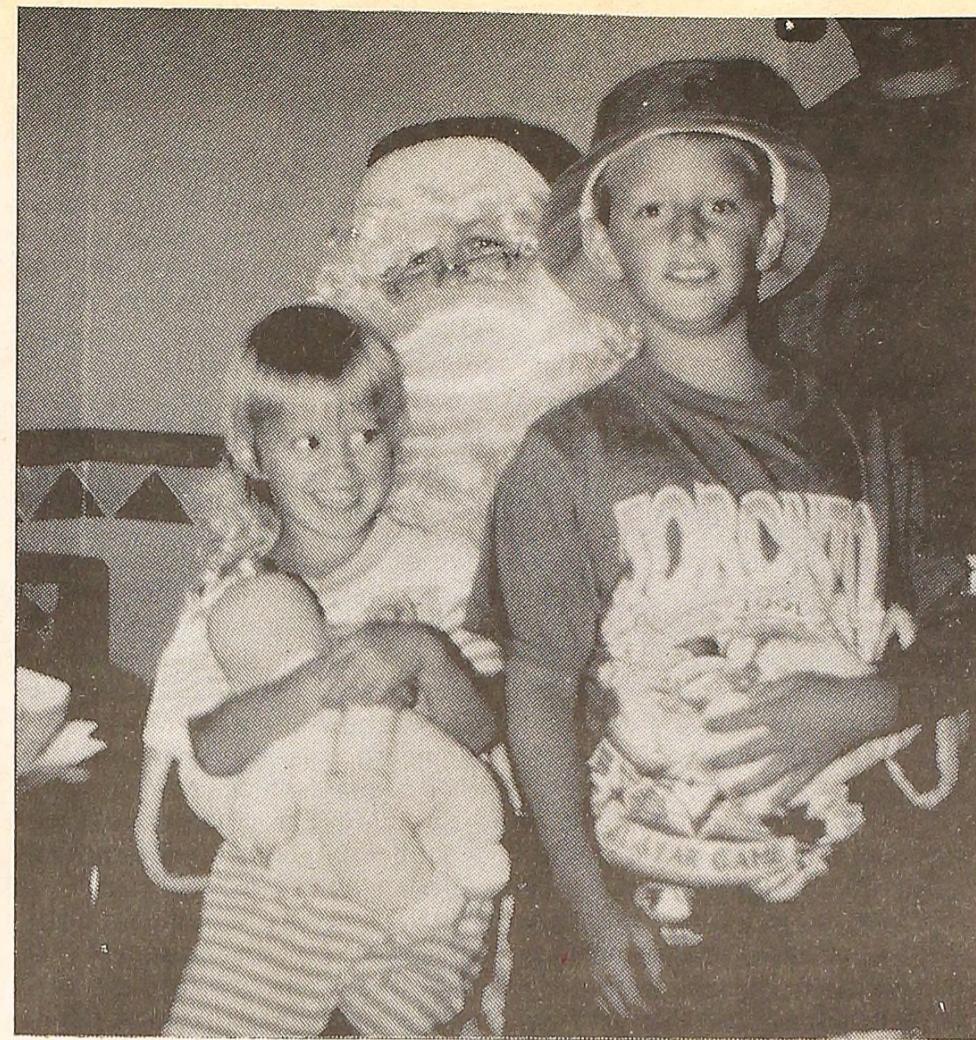

The party was held to raise money for the "Adopt-A-Family from Romulus" program. Lindie Jakab, the Jaycees' External Vice President for Community Development, will be searching for a Romulus family who desperately needs help. Not only will the Jaycees try to raise enough money to make sure that the chosen family has a delicious Christmas dinner, but they also plan to take the family shopping so that they can treat their loved ones to a special gift that, ordinarily, they couldn't afford.

Currently, there are 33 active members in the Romulus Jaycees, and they need the community's support. If you are interested, contact Sharon Shank or Ron Wenzel at 946-6250, ext. 101. □

"Get the Scoop" with WW

Thanks to Julie Wells for submitting the following information from Weight Watchers

The heat is on, the humidity high; you're trying to keep cool, but your mouth is dry. How do you spell relief? I-C-E-C-R-E-A-M! But for people trying to lose weight, ice cream is usually considered a definite "no-no" if they want to achieve that slender shape they long for.

"Ice cream is often thought of as the ultimate indulgence by people on a weight-loss program," comments Florine Mark, area director of Weight Watchers. "But if it is a food you enjoy, treating it as a 'forbidden' food will only make it more desirable. The key to eating foods such as ice cream is to eat them sensibly and in a way that doesn't make you feel out of control."

Mark offers these suggestions:

- Plan ahead to fit the ice cream into your weight-loss program. By planning ahead, you'll avoid feeling guilty and enjoy the ice cream even more.
- Instead of super-premium ice creams that are high in fat content (at least 14% milk fat) and calories, choose a variety lower in fat, such as Weight Watchers Fat Free Grand Collection Frozen Dessert or Weight Watchers new ONE-ders. The key is portion control — limit your serving to a single scoop.

- Select flavors that don't contain a lot of nuts, candy, or syrup; these are simply added calories. By eating plain strawberry or vanilla, you will still enjoy the sweet, creamy flavor of the ice cream with fewer calories.
- If you love ice cream, but find having it in the house tempts you too much, eat ice cream out where you can order a single scoop.
- Make your ice-cream-eating experience special. Instead of grabbing a spoon and a container, use a nice bowl and a low-calorie topping, such as sliced strawberries. Sit at a table instead of in front of the television. If you savor each spoonful, it will make it seem more satisfying.
- Buy single-serving products. Many novelties, such as pops and ice-cream sandwiches, have set portions and calories. Weight Watchers new ONE-ders are portion-controlled servings that come in four delicious flavors.

Port Side

By Captain Ron Dubsky, Ice Breaker II Sport Fishing Charters (942-3529)

By the time you read this article, Ice Breaker will be on its way to New York to fish the waters of Lake Ontario in search of the largest fish in the Great Lakes, the powerful king salmon. I will be gone the month of August, so look for "Port Side" in September, and I will give you a report on the big water trolling.

Anglers' Update: Dr. Howard Tanner, one of the key people responsible for introducing coho salmon to Lake Michigan in the mid-1960s, expressed concern recently over the future of the joint Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and Michigan State University (MSU) triploid Chinook salmon project.

Triploid salmon, which have three chromosomes and are unable to reproduce, are expected to remain in open water and continue to grow to large size — perhaps 50 pounds or more. The State of Michigan has been stocking triploid Chinook into Lake Michigan and Lake Huron for five years. Wisconsin also has stocked sterile Chinook in Lake Michigan over a three-year period.

This spring, the Michigan DNR was scheduled to release approximately 200,000 microtagged and adipose fin-clipped triploid Chinook salmon, on, bringing the number stocked since the project began to about 700,000.

Tanner said MSU personnel have just about completed the research relating to the process of creating triploid salmon and have shared the knowledge with several states and provinces. They also have reached their objective of developing a relatively simple procedure for producing triploid Chinook eggs suitable for use by nontechnical people under field conditions. Tanner added that he had hoped to move into the next phases of the project, but that declining income and increasing costs may prevent this and, perhaps, put the project on hold.

In worse financial shape is a research project on triploid and tetraploid bluegills. Fertile tetraploid (four chromosomes) bluegills would be bred to normal bluegills (with two chromosomes), and all of the offspring would be triploid and sterile.

Individuals or organizations wishing to contribute to the projects should contact Dr. Don Garling, MSU, Department of Fisheries and Wildlife, Natural Resources Building, East Lansing, MI 48824 (517-336-1699).

This week's photo shows you what a hard life this old charter captain has. I wish all of my customers looked this good! □ basement is not counted in the square footage of living space (i.e., if you have a bedroom located in your basement and three bedrooms on the main floors, you cannot say that you have a four-bedroom house; you still have only three bedrooms). Is this extra basement living space going to raise the assessed value of our homes, even though it will not increase the actual market value? Such space may be used as a selling point (just as landscaping can), but it doesn't add to the amount you can get for your home when you put it on the market — and that's what tax assessment is supposed to be about. □

Dogs and Turtles

By Tom Shamanski

Recently, my dog ran away. . . . I was crushed. Now, to you, this may seem to be as trivial as a Pulitzer for penmanship, but, when you live alone, your priorities tend to get jumbled a bit. At least I haven't come to garnishing my car bumper with a sticker saying, "I love my sprinkling system."

Anyway, with my dog, I was sad and confused, as this particular mutt was a light-colored female pit bull who looked good and knew it. She had all the males in the neighborhood howling to be with her . . . and, mostly, they were. In other words, I thought she had a darn good life with me.

Now, folks, I'm a reasonable person, but when Janette ran off (she left a note saying she needed more space to maximize her potential), I felt I'd better reevaluate my life priorities. After all, a dog is, indeed, a dog. Seeking help, I found an animal psychiatrist whose office was nearby; I made an appointment.

The following day, I was ringing an old cow bell at the front door of Dr. Turtle's house. Soon after, Buster, the doctor's black-and-white poodle dog-servant, was affixing a somewhat tattered leash around my neck and leading me to Turtle's office.

Upon entering, I heeled; the doctor was staring out the window, his back to me. As he slowly turned, I thought I saw a tail rustling beneath his lab jacket, but couldn't be sure. His face looked somewhat mangled, like that of a boxer who has trotted into the ring one-too-many times.

"Bark! Bark!" he cried before he caught himself. Pausing and drying his moist nose, he regained his composure and we introduced ourselves to one another.

At first, I could barely hear him; the doctor was hoarse. However, by tilting my head just right and correctly aiming my ear, I was able to hear him.

"Where's your pet?" he hoarsed. Quickly, I explained the situation and how I needed to find a major life purpose that was a tad above owning a dog.

Nodding his head, he whispered, "I don't think I can help you. Actually, I don't talk to actual people, but only to the actual animals involved . . . actually." Well, this seemed reasonable, as, after all, one must get to the root of a paw-blem before a solution can be found. Suddenly, I had an owl of an inspiration.

"Dr. Turtle, how about if I continue wearing this leash, get down on my hands and knees, and pretend I'm a manic-depressive dog . . . currently manic. Could you help me then?"

"Dachshund good idea!" he cried. "Let's give it a shot."

And so we did. And so we kept at it for several sessions. Costwise, it wasn't bad, as Turtle seemed content with a few large Milk Bones each time.

We discussed various careers I might choose in order to find myself, as well as a new life purpose once I found myself and knew exactly where I was at and where I wanted to be going, and, once there, which of the various careers we had discussed I might choose. Somehow, through all this confusion, the doctor and I finally dug up the career that would best suit me.

Folks, I don't mean to brag or boast, but I'm now a Special Projects Person for the US Army. I am the top dogface in charge of making dogtags!

Finally, contentment. □

Letter to the Editor

I find this letter truly hard to write, but long overdue.

I had taken a week's vacation to Las Vegas. When I arrived home and checked the messages on my answering machine, I found one from my friend Kristi at "the little paper": "The Newspaper will continue as it always has." I didn't understand exactly what she meant by that; why would things be any different?

Well, when I returned her call and learned of Editor Dave Atkins's death, it put me in a state of shock. I am now finally coming to grips with the fact that I have lost a friend and a person whom I considered to be my mentor. Dave had given me excellent advice on my future plans regarding journalism and publishing. I have followed through with his suggestions concerning Phase I, but now where do I go from here? . . .

I am glad that we all still have the warmth of his family as a great memory of a truly honest-hearted man — one very concerned about our community and the well-being of the people who lived and worked in it.

My prayers go out to all of his family members. I hope, too, that they will continue to press on, sticking close together, recognizing that they have many friends behind them all the way.

Maria "Myra" Barrow ("Tidbits")

Get Well Soon

The staff of "the little paper" would like to send get-well wishes to Judy Rakotz, owner (along with husband Dave) of Dave's Barber Shop on Goddard Road. Judy was recently rushed to the hospital, where she underwent several tests, but has since returned home. □

Woman's Leg Severed

By Officer Rick Schwartz, Romulus Police Department

At approximately 2:30 a.m. on Sunday, July 21, 1991, Romulus police officers responded to an accident on Middlebelt Road north of Northline Road. Investigating officers found Kathryn Ann McNulty (age 24) of Northville lying on the roadway with her right leg severed below the knee. McNulty was the passenger on a motorcycle driven by Reuben Perez (age 33) of Trenton. Perez, who was not seriously injured, was administering first aid to McNulty.

Witnesses report that the motorcycle was northbound in the right lane of Middlebelt when a southbound vehicle crossed over to the northbound side, striking the motorcycle. The suspect vehicle then fled the scene at a high rate of speed.

McNulty is reported to be in good condition at a local hospital. However, the suspect vehicle and driver have not been located at this time.

The Romulus Police Department Accident Prevention Bureau is actively pursuing this case and needs the help of anyone with information. The vehicle is a blue Ford Escort and probably has damage to the right front and/or right side from the impact with the motorcycle. The driver is described as a white male with short, straight, brown hair combed very neatly. Anyone with information should call the Police Department at 941-8400. □

reconfiguration of the Merriman and Middle Belt interchanges at I-94.

MDOT's third project would involve the construction of a "south access road" on Eureka near Vining. This road would tunnel beneath the new and existing crosswind runways and exit in the Airport's terminal area. Property will be acquired for the interchange and, according to Braun, everyone affected by this project has been contacted, also.

County officials were unable to give definite answers to many of the questions posed by residents after the presentation because the noise studies, which will determine the Airport's "noise contours," have not yet been completed. Residents were informed that further meetings will be held this fall, and that more information will be available at that time.

Meeting schedules will be published in The Romulus News as they become available. □

Point of Law

By Murray A. Duncan, Jr., Attorney

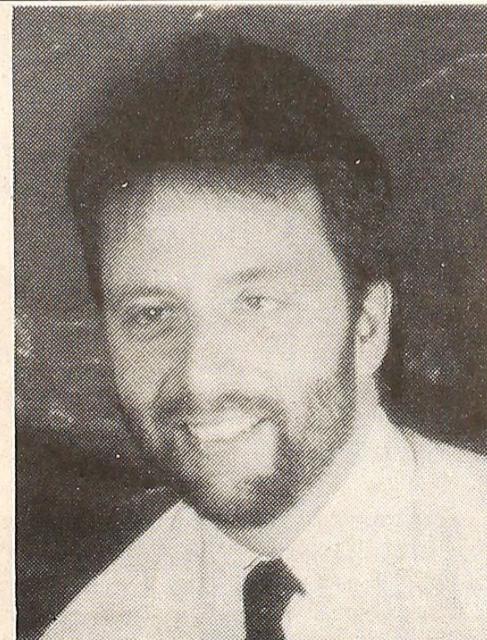

A probation revocation hearing must only be conducted in a fair manner; a probationer is not entitled to the full range of due process rights associated with a criminal trial.

A sentencing court may revoke a defendant's probation if revocation proceedings are commenced within the period of probation.

A police officer who observes a person commit a felony has probable cause to pursue that person, to effect an arrest without a warrant, and to conduct a search of the person and the area within the person's immediate control for weapons or evidence of a crime.

A spouse in a divorce action who did not earn a college degree should be compensated when the college degree is the end product of a concerted family effort involving mutual sacrifices and effort by both spouses.

In the division of marital assets, a party to a divorce should be given credit for contributions to a home, even though, at the time of the contributions, the parties were not married, if contributions were made with the anticipation that title in the home would eventually be transferred to the spouse.

If you have a legal question that you would like answered, you may send your question to my office and I will attempt to address it in a future issue. Questions should be mailed to: Murray A. Duncan, Jr., 10000 South Wayne Road, Romulus, Michigan 48174. □

Smokey's Den

By Dorothy Nesler

When Romulus Fire Marshal Charles Bradley retired in January of this year, he was replaced by David Allison. As Assistant to the Fire Chief, Allison's duties include fire inspections, fire investigations, and building site inspections and planning.

Allison is single, 36 years of age, and has been a volunteer firefighter for 12 years at Station #1. He has had ongoing professional schooling during the course of his career in firefighting and investigation.

We would like to welcome our new staff members to the Romulus Fire Department.

Station #1

Steven Bossidis, David Frazier, John Hamel, and Kelly Helms.

Station #2

Station #3

Peter Bergeron III and Donald Modrzynski.

Station #4

Brian Maitland and Chris Marchal.

We would also like to thank the following people for their dedication as Romulus Volunteer Firefighters.

Station #1

Gregory Milatz (who is leaving due to a job transfer to Tennessee).

Station #2

Jerry Clark (who resigned).

Station #3

Lieutenant Robert Green (who is moving to North Carolina).

Station #4

Matt Percy (who is leaving for business reasons and will reside in Canton), Joseph Garlitz (who resigned), and Michael Jones (who has also moved out of Romulus).

The Romulus Fire Department is in need of volunteers. To apply, contact the Chief, in person, at Station #4, or by telephone (941-8585). □

Gear Is Gone

Romulus residents attending August's council meetings or watching them on cable TV will soon notice the absence of a familiar face: Mayor Pro Tem Randy Gear.

Gear will be involved in intense programs for advanced infantry training at Fort McCoy, Wisconsin, through August 6, and at Fort Dix, New Jersey, from August 16 through September 3. Gear will resume his Council duties in September. □
